Subject: Don't Burrito Around the Bush – Go Vote!

Dear Chipotle Staff and Employees,

I wanted to reiterate to each of you how much I value your opinions and perspectives. At Chipotle, we believe in supporting our people and that includes encouraging everyone to take part in shaping our collective future.

As November approaches, the presidential election draws closer, and your participation matters. The same democracy that allows us to pursue our beliefs and represent our backgrounds is preserved through voting. It is the most powerful tool needed to contribute to our communities and serve America as a whole.

Everyone, I encourage you to go out and cast your vote. If you have any questions about where your local polling station is, or the voting process, your respective human resources department will have all the answers or needed resources.

Best regards,
